

Associazione per la Collaborazione tra Porti e Città
Association for the Collaboration between Ports and Cities

Architect, PhD in urban planning and evaluation, regional representative for the Italian Youth Association for UNESCO Campania. Since 2014 she has been carrying out research activities at the Institute for Research on Innovation and Services for Development (IRISS) of the National Research Council (CNR) of Italy where she collaborates with research centres, universities, institutions and associations, in Italy and abroad. Her research activity is focused on port cities regeneration and collaborative decision-making processes with particular attention to cultural creative services and co-creation approaches. The action research activity is accompanied by an intense activity of community engagement focused on culture and creativity as a driver for sustainable development.