

Professor of transport planning of the Department of Civil Engineering and Architecture, University of Catania where has the chair of teaching of the course Maritime transport and integrated logistics, among others. Member of the Scientific Committee of RETE. He is responsible for his University of many projects, including the PORTA (Ports as a gateway for Access inner regions) program MED project, of the Technological district NAVTEC (Sicilian commercial and recreational maritime transport district) and, in the context of the SEAPORT project, of the Higher Training Course for the sustainable development of port areas. Coordinator of a II level university master titled Transport systems: sustainable mobility and multimodality. He is author of over 150 publications on: urban transport systems, maritime and air transport, sustainable mobility. He is a member of the Permanent Working Group, Economics of the Sea thematic area, of the Regional Innovation Strategy for Smart Specialization for the period 2014-2020 Sicilian Region.